

Exploring the Relationship between Science and Faith
from a Christian Perspective

Faith Journeys in Science

The Challenge:

Church and science can seem like separate worlds, but scientists appear in pews and pulpits across the UK. How can we affirm the work of these faithful scientists and all who bring their vocation in science to the church, both as members and active friends of congregations?

Can your University Chaplaincy Help?

How - Partnering with University Chaplaincies, Radio Maria England and ECLAS will host an event that presents 4 scientists, 2 professionals and 2 students from the chaplaincy, to share their faith journeys in science.

Why - We want student help find the next generation of scientists to create spaces of engagement, build confidence and competence around scientific issues, and foster thoughtful, prayerful communities working in the world.

When - October (2022), November (2022), December (2022), January (2023), February (2023)

Where - Perhaps YOUR University?
